Ready, set... launch!

The Gregg-Gramiteville Library launched a new website on August 10, 2016. The website provides USCA faculty, staff and students with a new and improved gateway to library resources and services. The site has a fresh design, clear navigation and improved searchability with a focus on those essential research tools and support services provided by the Gregg-Gramiteville Library.

Some highlights of the new site include:

- streamlined access to search tools for articles, journals, and databases;
- consistent navigation across the top and bottom of the library’s webpages;
- direct access to Ask a Librarian help on every page;
- quick links for popular library services.

The remainder of this document will detail the functionality of the new website.

If you need assistance locating resources or for library assistance, please contact us via Ask a Librarian or by calling 803.643.6808.
The new Gregg-Graniteville Library website is located at www.library.usca.edu.
Research Tools

Access to the Library’s research tools takes center stage on our new site. To access our library catalog, library databases, e-journals or the research guides, check out the research toolbox located in the center of the homepage.
Ask a Librarian Help

Need help with research? Can’t find resources on a particular topic? Our Ask a Librarian help box will put you in contact with one of our helpful librarians. The site redesign places direct access to the Ask a Librarian help box on the right hand side of all of our webpages.
About the Library

Looking for the library’s policies, hours or faculty/staff directory? This information is located under the About dropdown option in the upper left-hand corner of the website. Here you can also find the Gregg-Graniteville Library mission, history, Friends of the Library and calendar.
Nested under the Research tab is direct access to our essential research tools as well as the research collections of the Gregg-Graniteville Library. Here you can access the A-Z list of databases, research guides, library catalog, and citation help materials. You can also access the unique research collections provided through the Library: the Gregg-Graniteville and University Archives, our digital collections, government documents and Scholar Commons.
Library Services

The Library offers a number of services for our students, faculty and staff. Access to these services is located under the Services tab in the upper left-hand corner of the page. Here you can access information about and contact information for circulation, collection development, library instruction, Interlibrary Loan/PASCAL, reference and even request a library purchase.
Located at the bottom on each page is the Library’s address, map/directions, hours and quick access to Ask a Librarian, the directory, Friends of the Library, and reporting website problems.
